U.S. Educational Leaders To Meet

Education and government leaders from 43 states, including a delegation from Utah, will attend the fourth annual meeting of the Education Commission of the States July 8-10 in Denver.

Highlights of the three-day meet will be a keynote address by former U.S. Commissioner of Education James E. Allen Jr., a National Assessment Seminar, and a speech by U.S. Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., member of the House Education Committee.

Among Utah representatives will be Dr. G. Homer Durham, commissioner of higher education; Dr. Walter D. Talbot, state superintendent of public instruction; Dr. Leon McCarrey, associate commissioner for academic affairs; Sen. Wilmer L. Barnett, R-Salt Lake, chairman of the Utah Senate Education Committee; Daryl J. McCarty, Utah Education Association executive secreatary; and Darld J. Long, executive secretary, Utah School Boards Association.

Former state superintendent of public instruction, Dr. T. H. Bell, recently named acting U.S. Commissioner of Education, is also expected to participate.

"Accountability '70" will be the theme of the national meeting, with general sessions covering national assessment, accountability in elementary, secondary and higher education, state funding and future directions in higher education.

Clinic sessions will cover allied issues, including the 12-month school year, civil rights compliance, early childhood education, accreditation in occupational education, drug education, community service educational programs and state support for private education.

Highlight of the opening day's activities will be the first report on a nationwide evaluation of the quality and effectiveness of American education. The report will include the findings of a survey of attitudes, skills and knowledge in citizenship and science of youths in various age groups.

Sessions will be conducted under the direction of Gov. Tom McCall, of Oregon, chairman of the commission.

Utes Lose Appeal On Uintah, Ouray Reservation Royalties

An appeal by Ute Indians to gain a higher portion of royalties of oil, gas and minerals underlying Uintah and Ouray reservations has been turned down.

Announcement of the decision made recently by the U.S. 10th Circuit Court of Appeals affirms Judge A. Sherman Christensen, U.S. District Court for Utah, in dismissing the suit earlier.

The suit against the federal government was filed in 1968 by 490 "mixed blood" Ute Indians, under the title Ute Citizens of the State of Utah. Purpose was to convey to its individual members, pro rate, a portion of oil, gas and minerals underlying the Utah reservations.

The decision, written jointly by Chief Judge David T. Lewis, Salt Lake City, and Judges Oliver Seth, Santa Fe, N.M., and Howard C. Bratten, Albuquerque, N.M., noted that the "mixed blood" group has an undivided 27 per cent beneficial interest in the minerals; the full-blood group has the remainder. Legal title has remained with the U.S. government.
